

London Group's Lunch at Casa Malevo, 21st November 2024

12 members and guests were joined by the Master at Casa Malevo, near Paddington in London. Those of us who arrived early watched as the Christmas decorations were put up outside all of the businesses in “Connaught Village” where the restaurant is situated.

We shared a wonderful range of Empanadas (like mini Cornish pasties but with a range of fillings) for starters and a Provolone – a soft cheese, not unlike Camembert but with a richer taste. Everyone chose their own main meals ranging from steak and burgers, to fish and a cauliflower steak. The range of vegetables enhanced the main course as did the wine, beers, coke and water. Not everyone had pudding or ice cream but some finished with coffee.

Of course, the real enjoyment was the fellowship with liverymen from London, and from other companies and our guests.

This is not Steve giving the Master the bill (Kim took control of that) but him sharing raffle tickets which he was selling (Fr Sebastian take note!).

We are looking forward to the next London event which we are working on with the Master.
