

APPLICATION FOR AN AD-HOC AWARD AC23 AD-HOC

The Worshipful Livery Company of Wales (the Company) was established in 1993 to promote the arts, science and technology in Wales and in particular for the development of the skills and professional competences within these activities. The Company aims to do this mainly through a comprehensive Awards Programme details of which are found on the Company website www.liverycomanywales.cymru.

The overall aim of the Award Programme is "To Nurture Welsh Talent". This will include Awards for those undertaking academic and vocational studies, members of the armed forces and those involved with Community services. There are a number of ad-hoc Awards also available. Awards will enable recipients to undertake travel, study and community projects which will significantly assist in furthering their careers and to enhance and develop their talents.

All applicants should be young people, generally between 15 and 35 years old and have Welsh credentials by reason of birth, education, residence, or work location. In the case of those university students who may only be studying in Wales, discretion will be exercised and further commitment to Wales will be sought.

Awards are determined by, and in order of:

- The ability of the applicant.
- The benefit to the applicant and to Wales that will accrue from the Award.
- The financial need of the applicant, although assessed only in general terms.
- The impact of the Award on the institution with which the applicant is associated.
