

WLCoW Vocational Award Winner 2025

Cian Curry

Huge congratulations to L3 Art and Design student Cian Curry, who has been honoured with a vocational award from the Worshipful Livery Company of Wales (WLCoW)

“As Master of the WLCoW, I’m delighted that our Company is able to continue the promotion of education, arts, science and technology in Wales through its annual awards programme. Through the years, it has allowed the Company “To Nurture Welsh Talent,” and enable the recipients to undertake travel, study and community projects which significantly assist in furthering their careers and enhancing and developing their talents. The Company is proud to have played a part and to continue to play a part in the recipients’ career journeys,” says Agnes Xavier- Phillips JP DL, Master of WLCoW.

“As a Liveryman of the WLCoW, I’m delighted to congratulate Cian on this well-deserved award. His exceptional talent and dedication to art and design are truly inspiring, and I have no doubt that he has a bright and prosperous future ahead. We are proud to support and celebrate such outstanding young individuals, and I look forward to seeing Cian’s creative journey unfold,” adds Angharad Lloyd Beynon, Liveryman of WLCoW and Senior Policy, Partnerships and Stakeholder Manager for City & Guilds.

Cian is an active and enthusiastic member of the College community. In addition to being a Welsh Ambassador, helping out at corporate events such as open evenings, he is also the College representative on the Coleg Cymraeg Learner Voice Forum.
